Tree Compass Project

We're calling all residents to connect to trees in our local area.

Using the points of the compass and trees as a starting point we invite you to create collaborative, community art which will then be plotted on a map.

Tree studies can be made in any medium, knitting, crochet, writing, painting, drawing, printing, embroidery, photography etc.

Mapping our local trees, we hope to not only map where they are. But map local connection to them, how important they are, how they make us feel, and the stories that may be associated with them.

Is there a tree near where you live?, on your route to school? or work? that makes you happy?, that helps you notice the seasons? or has a special meaning for you?

We'd love to hear and help you add to our map of trees in our area.
